CTI TECH TIP FACTORS TO CONSIDER WHEN BUYING AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE EQUIPMENT

Buying automotive service equipment is a significant investment, so careful consideration is essential. Big ticket purchases for your shop offer an opportunity to capture a market that you may not have been able to before. Return on investment is obviously a big part of the equation. So is your market size. Is there a market out there for the service that you are considering providing? If there is not then the percentages don't matter because the sales aren't there. In many cases the success of your investment will depend on the relationship you have with other businesses.

Here are key factors to ponder:

Consider the types of services you provide now. Do you need to upgrade that equipment for a proven market? Or is it time to reach out to provide new services as technology moves forward. These are some of the things you should think about. What do I do now? How successful is it? Is your business known for it?
For example:

- General repairs: Basic tools, diagnostic equipment, tire machines, wheel balancers
- Specialized services: Engine rebuilding, transmission repair, bodywork, require specific equipment
- Tire and wheel services: Tire changers, wheel balancers, alignment machines

Improvements in equipment and training can help maximize your potential earnings in areas you are already familiar with.

What is your Shop size and layout?

- Space limitations: Determine equipment size and placement. Do you need a larger bay area with room to work around the vehicle
- Work flow efficiency: Consider equipment placement for smooth operations. This is especially important for lifts, alignment machines, and advanced technologies like ADAS

And of course there's budget. Those dollars spent are not just the cost of the equipment although that is obviously a big part of it.
To look at the big picture you need to look at this.

- Equipment costs: Set a realistic budget for necessary equipment
- Lease vs. buy: Evaluate leasing options based on financial considerations
- Installation costs: Factor in costs for installation and setup. Don't forget those lost dollars from down time in the bays
- Maintenance costs: Some vendors offer ongoing maintenance as part of the purchase package
- Additional training: You can invest in training yourself but don't forget some companies offer that training and support with the tool purchase

Search out quality equipment that will serve you reliably for years. That includes the ability to upgrade that equipment as technology moves forward.

- Brand reputation: Research reliable brands with good customer reviews
- Build quality: That great price can soon be offset with downtime and difficult-to-find parts and service
- Warranty: You should always have the new equipment warranty but also look into extended warranties that might be available

There's a resource out there to help you wade through the myriad of questions. That's your local supplier's tool and equipment team. As well informed as your commercial account manager might be he has a team behind him with a wealth of experience to share with you and the ability to back you up once the purchase is made.

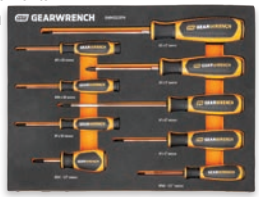

FINANCE IT Please note finance payments vary with every transaction, based on transaction size, prevailing rates, credit history, and other factors. Terms may also vary. All programs subject to final approval by GreatAmerica.

MotorVac® Cool Smoke MP Multi Pressure Smoke and Leak Detection Machine without Turbo Adapter Kit

- The CoolSmoke® MP operates on 12 to 24 VDC, is not polarity sensitive, and draws minimal current. Smoke is produced without heat, making it safer, more reliable, and more energy efficient than competitive models
- The CoolSmoke® MP delivers dense smoke with UV dye across its entire operating range of 0.5 PSI in EVAP mode/ 3-60 in HP mode, unlike competitive products that must reduce smoke output at higher pressures due to limitations in their technologies
- UV dye is critical in high-pressure leak detection providing the operator with an effective way to identify the leaks and their exact sources
- Measures pressure decay, leak sizes, and flow rates accurately over the entire pressure range due to high precision sensors and electronic controls that aren't possible with mechanical gauges
- Advanced 3.5" multi-color display with integrated software and Bluetooth® capabilities for future functional expansion
- The lightweight product design makes the CoolSmoke® MP portable and easy to handle Customer configurable settings include multiple languages and units of measure
- Multiple adapter configurations ensure the ability to connect to any automotive induction system component
