Lions Clubs International
Club Brand Guidelines

How to represent the world’s premier service organization.
Why do brand guidelines matter?

Brand guidelines help Lions Clubs International show the world who we are and what we do best. When our clubs all use the same language, logos, fonts, colors and image guidelines, we create a universally recognizable face for the world’s leading service organization.

Correctly using these brand guidelines also helps us preserve our organization’s trademarked logos and messages, such as ‘We Serve™’, so they may continue to be used by Lions for years to come.

1.1 Speaking in Lion

Our Name

First usage: Lions Clubs International
Second usage: Lions International

Use “organization” rather than “association” when referring to Lions International as a general entity.

Avoid the following terms when referring to the organization:

• Lions Clubs
• Lions
• LCI

Lions

“Lions” refers to our members, not our organization, and is always capitalized.

Use “Lions” when talking about collective attribution (e.g., Lions’ service, Lions’ compassion, Lions’ commitment).

Use “Lions club” and “Lions clubs” with a lowercase ‘c’ when referring to clubs.
1.2 Our boilerplate

Using our boilerplate?

Our organizational boilerplate is standardized language used in press releases, fact sheets and media responses to help consistently define Lions International.

Examples:

• Your local newspaper wants to write an article about a service project your club recently organized. You send the details of the service project to the newspaper, and also include a boilerplate to provide background on who we are as an organization.

• You are writing a press release on a new partnership between your club and another local organization. The boilerplate is included at the bottom of the press release to provide additional context.

Lions International boilerplate

Lions Clubs International is the largest service club organization in the world. Our 1.42 million members in more than 48,000 clubs are serving in over 200 countries and geographic areas around the globe. Since 1917, Lions have strengthened local communities through hands-on service and humanitarian projects, and we are able to extend our service impact through the generous support of our Lions Clubs International Foundation. We are focused on supporting sight, hunger, the environment, childhood cancer and our new global cause, diabetes, to help address some of the biggest challenges facing humanity. Lions have set an ambitious goal of helping 200 million people per year so we can bring even more service to more people than ever before. 2.0 // The emblem and nameplate
2.1 Using the emblem and nameplate

The Emblem

The Lions Clubs International emblem should only ever be used as pictured below. Correct use of our emblem helps us protect trademarks on the emblem worldwide. When you use the emblem as pictured here, you help us preserve our most important symbol for future generations of Lions.

The Nameplate

The nameplate is the correct way to show the name of our organization on your marketing materials. While the emblem may be used alone, the nameplate should only be used alongside the emblem. When the emblem and the nameplate are shown together, this is called the signature.

3.0 // Design basics
3.1 Color palette

Primary color palette

The Lions Clubs International primary color palette consists of yellow, blue and gray.

The primary palette is to be used extensively for large areas of colors fills, typographic treatments and as accents.

The secondary color palette

The Lions International secondary color palette complements our primary palette. These colors provide an extension to the brand and should be used sparingly.

The secondary palette colors work well as accent colors and are a way to add energy and emphasis.
3.2 Typography

Primary typeface

Helvetica Neue has been chosen as the primary typeface for Lions Clubs International communications. The different weights in this typeface allow for flexibility and creative expression in text and display.

Secondary typeface

Adobe Caslon has been chosen as the secondary typeface for Lions Clubs International communications. This font should be used in areas of longer form text that fall beneath headlines. It should not be used as headlines or subheadlines.

The default typefaces

Helvetica, Arial and Times have been chosen as the default typefaces for Lions Clubs International communications. They should be used for word processing or when the primary and secondary typefaces are not available.

Non-Roman typefaces

For languages that do not use the Roman alphabet, please choose fonts that compliment our chosen Roman typefaces or fonts that communicate best in your geographic area. We recommend fonts that work well with simpler sans-serif fonts that are not too ornate or decorative.
4.0 // Photography
4.1 Taking great photos

Light and focus
Great lighting is the key to great photography. Taking photos outside in daylight is always recommended, as daylight floods your image with natural light and makes details easy to see. Try to avoid using the flash on your phone or camera. The subject of the photo should always be clear and in focus.

Composition
Framing your subject is an important part of taking a good photo. We recommend learning about the rule of thirds, which dictates photos look more pleasing when subjects are placed strategically within the frame. Some cameras even have an option to show a grid over your screen, which can help you to apply the rule of thirds for ideal composition.

Candid action
Candid photos of your subjects interacting naturally are more effective than “posed” or “staged” photos. Photos of Lions serving their community are a great place to start. Natural “action” shots of service create a sense of positivity and highlight Lions doing what they do best.
4.2 Dos and Don’ts

Do

- Photos use natural light and are bright and colorful.
- Subject of photo is in focus.
- Photos feature Lions in action.

Don’t

- Photos in bottom row are poorly lit - too dark and too light, respectively.
- Top photo is staged and posed, and fails to express what Lions do.
4.3 Using images

Avoid image search engines

It may be easy just to use images you find through search engines such as Google or Pinterest. But did you know that you may be violating copyright by doing so? Photography and graphics found online may be free to download, but that does not mean you may use them without credit. Images found in search engines are usually shown outside the context of the webpage they were originally posted on, and may not be free to use.

Do your research

Copyright law varies by country. Be sure to investigate any relevant laws regarding attribution and copyright in your country before using images not taken by you personally.

Where to find images

When searching for stock images, stick with websites that offer images in the public domain or with no copyright restrictions. One common form of creative licensing found online is the ‘Creative Commons’ license. These licenses allow creators to share work such as photos online, while also clearly stating how the creator permits those works to be used. Most works with a Creative Commons license are free to use, but sometimes require you to credit the creator. You can search for works with these licenses on the Creative Commons website. Most importantly: always check the license listed with a photo before using it.

Giving credit

Some image licenses require you to give the original creator credit. To do this, simply add a line of text identifying the image creator just inside or just below the image.

6.0 // Branding our global causes
6.1 Iconography

An icon for every cause

Each of our global causes has an icon associated with it. These are to be used in all marketing of individual causes to help create unique branding.

When all causes are featured, all icons should be included, or none.

7.1 Aligning with brand

Aligning with brand

Having a unified brand creates a consistent identity for Lions and Lions International at both the local and global level. If you have questions on the contents of the brand guidelines or branding questions in general, contact us at lionsbrand@lionsclubs.org.
